

Scientific Modelling at Parkside

Scientific modelling is an important skill in Science which can be used to identify patterns and make predictions as well as to enhance explanation. During their lesson on the levels of organisation, students developed their use of scientific modelling by using Lego bricks in producing models to represent cells, tissues and organs.

Additionally, they had to research various organ systems to identify the organs from which they are made and the function of those organ systems. To consolidate their learning, students paired up to play a stimulating, scientific card game. Each card displayed a definition, word or a picture of a cell, tissue, organ, organ system or organism. Students were to choose a card at random for their partner and read the definition in order for their partner to identify what is being represented.

To develop their understanding of the topic further, students collaborated in assembling the cards together to demonstrate the levels of organisation to the highest level - the organism level.

Absence Reporting

In the event of your child being unable to attend college, please contact the main reception on 020 8573 2097 before 8:45am. In order for the College to ensure that all students are properly safeguarded, it is important for you to follow this procedure for every day your child is absent. The only exception to this, is for extended periods of illness where the period of absence is explained in a note from your child's doctor or hospital. The College is required to account for all absences so please ensure your child brings a letter that verifies the reasons for their absence on their return to college. Thank you

Precautionary Measures for Coronavirus

Please note that although it is not mandatory, students are still encouraged to wear face masks, maintain social distancing and perform regular handwashing throughout the day. In addition to these precautionary measures, the College are also anticipating the provision of the new carbon dioxide monitors this September launched by the government. The programme will provide sufficient monitors to take readings from across indoor spaces within the College to allow staff to identify where ventilation needs to be improved and let fresh air in, therefore removing air that contains virus particles and reducing the transmission of COVID-19.

Please note, we have updated our Coronavirus - Advice and Guidance page with this information. To keep updated with the latest guidelines and the new implementations made around the College, please visit: (<https://www.parksidestudiocollege.co.uk/129/coronavirus-advice-and-guidance>).
